What is a Tonic.

Bear this in mind,—that although a tonic is, to a certain extent, a stimulant,—a stimulant unmodified by any medicinal compliments, is not a tonic, but a spirituous. In HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS there is a stimulating element of the purest grade manufactured in this or any other country. Every Bar and mercantile oil or acid which contains this stimulating principle, of commerce, is expelled from the very spirit which forms the alcoholic basis of the BITTERS, by careful and repeated rectification. The juices of the valuable roots, barks and herbs, infused into this wholesome product of the finest grains, give further stability to patients so unique all the tonic, digestive agent, which belongs, of right, to vegetating properties when taken in connection with pleasure in a raw state. It is thereby the pure and harmless vehicle which imparts the medicinal virtues of the pure parsley, camomile, gentian, calisaya, orange peel, and other tonic, digestive and aromatic vegetable productions, which are the ingredients of this pleasant and popular medicine. Lease of Samana Bay by our Government

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.

The United States Frigate Albany arrived at this port yesterday morning from St Domingo, having on board Commissioners Porter, Ingalls and Sackett. These gentlemen have, in the name of the United States succeeded in leasing from the Dominican authorities the bay and peninsular of Samana for the period of 60 years, at the rate of $150,000 in gold per annum. The first payment has been made. It is stated that the regulations for the lease of Samana Bay were concluded on November 24th, with President Baez and Cabinet of St Domingo. A few days after a battery of 8 guns, 1000 breech loading muskets, several thousand small arms and a large amount of ammunition were landed and turned over to the Dominican authorities. These, together with $150,000 in gold, were paid by the U. S. Commissioners as the first installment to secure the grant. On the 16th inst., the Albany, with President Baez's staff and the Commissioners, left St. Domingo for the Bay of Samana. On their arrival at Samana staff was procured, and in company with a number of officials, including Capt. Batch of the Albany, Baez's Chief of Staff, several school officials, and a quota of the cliquots of the frigate's officers, Generals Porter, Ingalls and Sackett repaired to the island of Caranero, in the mouth of the bay, long used as a naval depot, and selecting a mound overlooking the surrounding land, the staff was planted, and at 25 minutes to 3 o'clock, with General Porter and others at the halyards, the flag was run to the peak amid the belching of the cannon on the frigate and the cheers of the crew, and a return salute of 21 guns from a shore battery. The time of raising the American flag was the anniversary of Columbus running to the breeze 377 years before the token of Spanish authority in the Carribean Sea. The island of Caranero contains several chops used for mechanical purposes, and has long been a coal depot of no mean importance. Convenient and accessible, it will be invaluable to United States naval vessels.

On the mainland there were demonstrations of joy at the event, and in the evening a meeting was held at a church where the priest congratulated the crowds that the flag of the most liberal government in the world now floats over them. The Albany left for Washington.

One of the good, old fashioned New England Thanksgivings took place in Attleboro Mass., at the old Capron homestead, when Mrs. Deborah Capron, the hostess, had present, as guests, 11 children, 22 grandchildren, and 9 great grand children—42 lineal descendants. Mrs. Capron was one of a family of 15 children, 12 of whom are dead.

The South Carolina legislature adjourned the other day to see John Robinson's circus. A motion to that effect was made by Mr. De Large, the colored leader of the House, in these words: Mr. Speaker, de circus hab arrobe, and darfore I moves dat we adjourn'—which was done accordingly.

Among the tax payers of Boston there are twenty individuals and corporations who pay upward of $12,000 each. The highest tax paid by any single individual is that paid by Augustus Hemenway, which amounts to $33,360. The Boston gas light company is taxed more than any other corporation, the amount being $35,269.

Hiram Powers denies that he received $20,000, or anything like that amount, from the State of Louisiana for his statue of Washington. He adds that he hopes soon to hear that the citizens of New Orleans have raised the entire subscription for the statue of Franklin, and that he shall not ask for the money until the statue is completed in marble.

A SIGNIFICANT VOTE—That in the House of Representatives the other day—one hundred and twenty-nine to forty-two—on the question of endorsing the President's opinion "that a renewal of a treaty of reciprocity in trade with the British provinces (the New Dominion) would be wholly in favor of the British provinces and should not in in our present condition be favorably considered." With this he beginning the prospect for a dividend to the Canadian lobby at Washington this session looks rather blue.—[Herald.

SUICIDE OF A FAST YOUNG MAN. A sad case of suicide occurred at Chicago Monday morning, in a house of ill-fame on Monroe street. The victim was a young man named John F. Purcell, Exchange and Journal Clerk of the Exchange Savings Bank, on Lasalle street. It appears that he had been in the habit of drinking and associating with fast characters, but on being told by his employers that he must reform his habits, he promised to do so. Afterwards, however, he became acquainted with a fascinating member of the demi-monde, and indulged in occasional periods of dissipation. Sunday night he visited the house spoken of where he passed the night. In the morning he took a revolver from under his pillow and shot himself dead. On investigating his accounts they were found to be correct. The only reason assigned for the act is remorse of conscience arising from immorality.

A QUEER SPECIMEN. The Ellsworth American says there is a singular individual, living at present in the town of Hancock, known as King Cling, or Cling Cling. He has lived at various places along the coast, and is known as far east as Nova Scotia. He generally lives in a small camp, in some retired spot, and obtains a scanty subsistence by doing small jobs of work. He is said to be quite intelligent and ingenious. He walks with two long staves, which he grasps at five or six feet from the ground. He is extremely sensitive to noise; the crowing of a cock is his especial aversion.—A few years since, he was living in Surry in a very quiet and secluded neighborhood. His nearest neighbor becoming tired of his society procured a Cochin China bird of rare vocal powers. In a few days Mr. Cling struck his tent, and, after giving his neighbor his opinion of roosters and those who would keep them, left the place forever. His only companions are a dog of the female persuasion, and her progeny, of which it is said he was more careful than of himself. He is quiet and inoffensive and never [illegible]

Universal Amnesty—Impartial Suffrage'

Mr Greeley is still riding "Universal Amnesty and Impartial Suffrage." He writes a reply to Gen. Butler's response to his former letter on the subject. We give a few of the "points" he makes.

Referring to Gen Butler's opinion that some half dozen more or less of the Confederates should have suffered exemplary punishment, Mr. Greeley says—

"When five more years of peace shall have intervened, I am quite confident you will consider that two or three examples would have been enough, and after a lapse of five more years, you will be satisfied that to have strung up in 1865, him who was your choice for President in 1860, would have answered the purpose "

He refers to many historical precedents to show that severities after a war do not serve to save or perpetuate power "In short " he says, "if there be one lesson written all over the face of history, it seems to me to be that 'pride goes before destruction,' and that the conqueror in a civil feud who has glutted his vengeance, stands near his final downfall " He cites Tennessee and the overthrow of the Republican party there as an instance of the legitimate fruits of a proscription policy, and impeaches the policy of a sweeping disfranchisement and proscription, as leading inevitably to such disasters Mississippi and the defeat of Dent he regards as a vindication of the more liberal policy In conclusion he expressed his confidence that as passions cool and wrath abates, thousands who have cursed will thank him for what he has done and dared in resistance to their own sanguinary impulses I joyfully trust that this will become at last the common faith and even that of General Butler himself '

Once having come to a conclusion, Mr Greeley is a notorious special pleader to maintain his position He is all the more effective in that vein from the fact that his claim to ingenuousness has gained such wide faith with the people In this case his points are all special pleas, lubricated with attempts at sarcasm, to which he is sure to resort, legitimate arguments being exhausted He thrusts Gen. Butler for desiring to hang Jeff Davis now when that traitor was his candidate for President ten years ago The same argument would have kept a large proportion of our soldiers at home for fear they would injure their former friends Mr Greeley only allows the rule to operate to his own advantage Many of our staunchest Republicans were loth to be convinced of the infamy of the rebel leaders till hostilities actually commenced, they were nevertheless instrumental in crushing out rebellion when actually in the field For our part we cannot see why the man who was in favor of compromise before the rebellion begun and was favorable to tramping out all its embers, is not entitled to as much credit as the man who, always having agitated for a civil quarrel, is ready to back down in the midst of the strife and is ready to surrender all the fruits of the expensive victory.

The lessons of our own recent history are enough to settle this question, and we need not go back of that. We do not propose severities towards our late enemy, we propose only to keep his heel from our own neck which all history bears us out in doing Georgia shows what rebels would do if they had the power They would disfranchise every negro, and make it uncomfortable, if not positively unsafe for the whites who are friends of reconstruction They would, as they now openly declare, reject the 15th amendment, which every sane man knows would defeat the watchword which Mr Greeley delights in sounding The whole South sends up its evidence of this wherever the rebels have got power by fair or foul means they have abused it It is the plainest proposition capable of demonstration that the gift of universal amnesty would postpone for a long time the desired result of impartial suffrage

The argument that as the years roll by we shall gradually find men regretting the old enmities resulting from the war, is most specious of all. Time removes many animosities, but that does not disprove the fact that those animosities were justifiable at some time Universal amnesty will no doubt come finally, but till the country is safely out of its trials, till traitors abstain from open declarations of evil intent, till they declare a truce in their bloody outrages, universal amnesty is a mere hobby unworthy sober consideration Mr Greeley's claim for credit in upholding it is simply the assumption of a politician Mercy will travel as rapidly as justice requires without reducing it to ridicule

Lopez, the Paraguayan leader, appears to have more lives than a cat He has been slaughtered, conquered, driven to the last stronghold, and positively annihilated so many times that we begin to think he is possessed of supreme recuperative powers, and can never die permanently. The last mail advices from Paraguay say that Lopez is at 'Corugnaty," other accounts say that he has crossed the mountains into the disputed territory between Brazil and Paraguay The allies were pursuing him as fast as their 'limited ' means admitted, but they were too greatly straightened for food to make rapid marches So now the allies are on the lower end of the teeter Lopez is reported to have with him twenty pieces of artillery and over 8000 men, many of whom were boys pressed into the service on his way Other enormities are also told of Lopez who is a dreadful Bluebeard, according to the allies Near Estanislaus the allies found the bodies of from 100 to 250 men whom Lopez had killed for insubordination Lopez is a pretty good ally of the allies if all reports are true He averages the murder of any where from a score to a thousand of his own people per week, and we believe he has made way with about all of his own family Somebody must be deceived about this Lopez business

Tammany is at last disgusting the better class of Democrats, and driving from its support those who still cling to the phantom that there should be (if there isn't) something in a name In Brooklyn the Democratic leaders have been pretty roughly handled for their frauds, and now the German Democrats of the 10th and 17th wards of New York, a large and respectable body of voters, have held a mass meeting, denouncing in the strongest terms, and warning the Democrats of the country not to trust to the leaders of Tammany Hall, proposing to contest the last election of judicial officers in those wards, and calling upon Congress to pass a stringent election law, under the power given it by the Fifteenth Amendment, as soon as the Amendment should be adopted. A letter was received, promising aid, and purporting to come from a Vigilance Committee. Repudiation and corruption are rather a weighty couple for Democracy to bear.

Congress is evidently in earnest in looking after our shipping interests. The committee to inquire into the subject will sit during the holiday recess. A large number of men interested in shipping are now in Washington in consultation with members of the committee. The House has given chairman Lynch permission to report on the 10th of January next but it is hardly probable he will be able to do so

Indiana has long held a bad reputation upon the matter of divorce Any body could get a divorce there who wanted to do so, and many did get them who did not desire a return to the primitive condition — All any one had to do was to establish a very brief residence there represent that wife or husband was not willing to abide in that commonwealth, and the thing was all clear The deserter was deserted and the defendant knew nothing of the prosecution To come down to the plain fact the Indiana laws provide that divorces may be granted by circuit judges for certain specified causes and then adds or for any other cause for "which the court shall deem it proper that 'divorces shall be granted It will be seen that this comprehensive clause gives to the judges a discretionary power in the matter that cannot be other than dangerous Indiana protests against the character that has been given her, but while the laws and the records are as they are, how can her reputation be other than it is? Indiana should change her laws. They may not be worse than those of some other States but Indiana has got a bad reputation to wipe out, that others, however unjustly have not

Gov. Hoffman of New York is in favor of rescinding that State's assent to the fifteenth amendment, but hesitates about abolishing the Metropolitan Commissioners of the city The Democrats have for long years been denouncing these commissioners as "oppressive' to the city, but now that they have the appointments they don't appear so obnoxious Democracy out of office and in office is quite a different article

The Rockland Gazette says the revenue officers have been investigating in one returns in that vicinity, and in several cases have imposed heavy penalties That is the manner in which this administration proposes to perform its duty Honesty and faithfulness are its watch words

A Washington special states that Minister Motley recently proposed the transfer of not only the Alabama Claims negotiations to Washington, but that the question of the neutrality of the seas be included in the future arbitration of the subject The British Government has formally assented to both propositions but no definite time has been fixed

It is stated that the Government of St Domingo has negotiated a loan in London or nearly $4 000,000 in gold for the payment of which the revenues of the ports of St, Domingo and Puerto Plata the amount of £38 000 per annum, and the royalties produced from the export of guano from the Island of Alto Vela and the duties from coal and mahogany from the peninsula of Samana are set aside

Mr Mungen is more an exponent of Democratic faith in repudiation than they generally have the courage to acknowledge A Washington correspondent of the Tribune says Mr Mungen claims that he was betrayed into the speech with the promised support of a number of prominent Democrats It is a well known fact that at least four prominent Democratic members had prepared speeches taking the same ground as Mungen, and while Mungen was reading his remarks, alarmed at the indignation they aroused, they held council in one of the cloak rooms and agreed to destroy their essays and join in the repudiation of Mr Mungen's views

A Washington dispatch states that the President and Vice President waited on ex Secretary Stanton and tendered him the vacant Judgeship for the Supreme Bench which was accepted, and his nomination will be sent to the Senate immediately

There is a rumor in New York that Secretary Fish is about resigning and that Judge Pierrepont will be his successor

BITTERNESS AND INSUBORDINATION IN FLORIDA

A delegation of gentlemen from Florida is up here to get the aid of the government in repressing disorders in their State It consists of J C Gibbs Secretary of State, G D Carse, Adjutant General, Rev C H Pearce State Senator, and Colonel W U Saunders They say a bitter spirit still prevails in the western section and that the governor can do nothing toward organizing a militia unless government gives him regular troops as a nucleus They prefer colored rather than white troops, and ask for but three or four companies, thinking their mere presence will overawe the lawless element, a good portion of which swings over into their State from Georgia Senator Wilson called with them on the President and Secretary of War Saturday, and they presented their case in full, finding both officials much interested in affairs down there, and receiving assurances of the support of the administration and its assistance in preserving law and order

A PENALTY AND ITS OFFSET

One of the National Banks of this city returned its profits on a gold basis, and has not only had to pay the difference but a penalty of $14 000, making $22 000 in all As offset, the Treasury has paid a cotton claim held by the same bank, on a favorable decision of the Court of Claims amounting to $30,000, on which Government has appealed to the Supreme Court and which that Court may decide against

GEN SHERMAN DECLINES TO AID IN COLLECTING THE REVENUE

Gen Sherman has declined a request from Commissioner Delano that the army be used to assist the revenue officers in suppressing illicit distillation and in collecting the revenue at the South The General believes that Government has a better use for its troops than to enforce revenue laws and cites the demoralizing effect which such duty has had upon the British army The collection of the revenue, he says, belongs to the civil, and not to the military service and it is only when resistance is made to the laws that troops should be employed

THE LATE ELECTION IN TENNESSEE

The Tennessee delegation in Congress Fowler of the Senate and Hawkins of the House excepted have signed a protest against the recognition of the late election in their State by Congress It recites the history of the contest and points out the violations of State and national laws It claims that Congress should set aside the whole election as void, and declare all acts of the new legislature illegal, and the call for a constitutional convention without authority It appeals to Congress to cause an investigation of the matter to be entered upon at once

Five persons were drowned in the Passaic river at Newark, N J, last Thursday noon while going from the pivot of the new bridge now being constructed to the shore in a flat bottomed scow Seven others escaped by hard swimming The water was rough and the boat commenced dipping, when the whole party became demoralized and jumped overboard

COMMISSIONER WELLS' REPORT.

INTERESTING AND VALUABLE STATISTICS

Commissioner Wells' Report states that the revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30 1869, was $370 943 747 21 The national expenditure for the same period was $321,490 597 75—leaving an excess of revenue over expenditures of $49 453 149 46 The reduction of the public debt for the current calendar year has been $87,147 466 02, and since the first of September 1865 $314 129 836 20 The Commissioner figures out the total cost of the war (an abstract of which we have before given) at $4 171 914 498 3_ down to June 30 1869 to this however, should be added the value of the pensions now paid, if the same were capitalized this at eight years purchase of the present annual payment, would amount to about $300 000 000 but to these large figures representing only the cost to the National Government, the Commissioner adds $496 000 000 for the increase of the State debts and for estimated losses to the loyal and confederate States and other causes

The total immigration to the United States since 1865 has been 2,918 213

Five thousand miles of railway have been built the past year and 15 000 miles since the close of the war

Assuming the present population of the United States to be 39 000 000 and the average value of the property held by each person to have nominally increased from $456 6 gold in 1860 to $600 00 currency in 1869 the present valuation of the United States would be $23 400 000 000—an increase since 1860 of $9 _ 6 784 3_ or ... per cent The increase in valuation during the decade ending with 1860 was about 65 per cent, or allowing for omissions and under estimates in the census ... not in excess of 6 per cent this last if continued would give a total valuation in 1870 of $25 525 000 000 adding 30 per cent to this amount for the premium on gold, the currency valuation at this time would be $33 188 000 000 Deduct the cost of the war as given above say $9,000 000 000 we should have left $ 4 188 000 ... as the accumulated wealth of the country at the close of the present ...

After ... the ... at work ... the ... distribution of the ... national ... accumulated ... irredeemable currency ... and ... unequal taxation ... the two principal agencies which ... [illegible] ... contends that the present ... and ... currency ... causes ... He argues by the fact that the prices of domestic commodities ... in excess of ... other countries ... The ... proved by the fact that the amount of currency in circulation has been arbitrarily increased during the last eight years considerably more than two fold although the increase of population ... production and accumulated wealth during the same time has been by general agreement in a very much smaller proportion and although at the former date the amount of currency in circulation was not limited by any serious restrictions upon the creation of banks or issue of paper really or nominally redeemable in specie

As to the resumption of specie payment Mr Wells argues that unless resumption implies contraction it will cure but a small portion of the existing evils If it was possible to substitute $400 000 000 in gold for the $400 000 000 paper in circulation and hold that amount in the country there would be the same inflation of prices the same disproportion between imports and exports and the same inability to dispose of products of domestic industry in foreign markets ... be sure it would be impossible to retain such an amount of gold in the country except by laws of impossible barbarism but wherein would the reduction of gold currency then through exportation differ from the reduction of the present paper currency through a judicious and well ordered withdrawal There is no such thing as resumption and continuance of specie payments with continuance of our abnormal system of foreign trade and exchanges and for the simple reason that gold will not stay here, and would long ago have left us if the last dollar had not bonds of the national government been available for the settlement of foreign balances in place of gold We must reduce prices so that foreign nations will be willing because it is for their interest to exchange product for product and to accomplish this there must be contraction for to reduce prices permanently and equally while maintaining $700 000 000 of irredeemable paper currency is simply an impossibility $700 000 000 in paper cannot be kept redeemable with less than $730,000,000 of gold, because with such an amount of currency it would inevitably be depreciated and hence gold would bear a premium which every holder of paper would be desirous to realize With $400 000 000 of paper, on the other hand a $100 000 000 of gold would probably be ample to cause the currency, not being in excess of the wants of commerce would not suffer depreciation and gold and paper being on otherwise equal terms, paper would be preferred for its greater convenience in use just as in 1860, the banks were fully able to redeem all of their circulation which was presented for payment, although having but 18 cents of specie for each dollar of immediate liabilities

It is not the ratio between gold and paper that needs regulating, but the ratio between the amount of paper in circulation and the volume of national production and exchange of which it is the instrument. The commissioner, in view of the above considerations, is constrained to believe that contraction direct and undisguised is the only remedy for its position In considering the question of further taxation the commissioner estimates at present rates the surplus for 1869 and 1870 will exceed that of 1868 and 1869, viz $80 000,000 The gain for the same time by the reduction of expenditures is estimated at $26 000,000 We shall also gain, he thinks by the elasticity of the revenue, say from $12,000,000 to $15 000 000. The sum of these items makes the estimated surplus for the current fiscal year, $124 000 000 — The commissioner favors the application of the surplus in the Treasury to the abatement or removal of taxes, and recommends the sum of $50,000,000 as the first measure of reduction to be directed towards relieving the industries of the people The commissioner recommends that the rate of the income tax be reduced from 5 to 3 per cent, and the exemption from rent be fixed at $200 in this way he thinks the revenue from this source will not be impaired

Consumption.

The Three Remedies,' SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP for the cure of Coughs Colds Bronchitis and every form of Consumption The peculiar action of this medicine ripens the ulcers in the lungs promotes the discharge of the corrupt matter by expectoration purifies the blood, and thus cures Consumption when every other remedy fails SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, for the cure of Dyspepsia or Indigestion and all diseases arising from debility This tonic invigorates the digestive organs supplies the place of the gastric juice when that is deficient and then enables the patient to digest the most nutritious food It is a sovereign remedy for all cases of indigestion SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS one of the most valuable medicines ever discovered being a vegetable substitute for calomel and having all the useful properties accredited to the mineral, without producing any of its injurious effects

To these three medicines Dr J H Schenck of Philadelphia owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of Pulmonic Consumption The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter, discharges it and purifies the blood The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver remove all obstructions therefrom give the organs a healthy tone, and cures Liver Complaint, which is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption The Sea weed Tonic invigorates the powers of the stomach and by strengthening the digestion and bringing it to a normal and healthy condition improves the quality of the blood by which means the formation of ulcers or tubercles in the lungs becomes impossible The combined action of these medicines, are thus explained will cure every case of Consumption if the remedies are used in time and the use of them is persevered in sufficiently to bring the case to a favorable termination

New Method of Extracting Teeth Without Pain.

Dr E T WASGATT,

Surgeon Dentist,

Has purchased an apparatus for producing local anaesthesia by the vapor of ether invented by the celebrated Dr B W RICHARDSON of London

By using this instrument the patient gets rid of the dread of taking ether, for the spray is only applied to the teeth and gums and does not affect the patient in the least. Dr WASGATT has been using the ether spray for the past few weeks with marked success, extracting six to eight teeth at one sitting, and his patients say they never will take ether when they can get the ether spray applied to the gums.

Senate

Mr Patterson reported favorably on the House joint resolution to amend the leasing of the Custom House block in San Francisco. The joint resolution was then read, discussed and passed.

Mr Morrill of Vermont, reported favorably on the bill relative to repealing the duties on corned and preserved fish. He stated that these articles had been overlooked in the bill of repealing duties on preserved fruit.

The House Census bill was taken up and referred to the Committee on revision of laws.

Mr. Trumbull from the Committee on Judiciary reported as a substitute for the various propositions before them a joint resolution declaring that the State of Virginia is entitled to representation in Congress

Petitions for removal of duty on coal were presented.

Mr. Pomeroy introduced a bill to charter the American and Holland Ocean Cable Company, providing for a direct telegraphic communication between Washington, New York, Holland and Europe generally, under a concession granted by the King of Holland to Mr. Jewett. Referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. Anthony from the Committee on Printing reported with an amendment a joint resolution for the publication for the use of the Senate, 30,000 copies, and for the use of the House, 50,000 copies of the eulogies upon Senator Fessenden with accompanying portrait.

Mr. Trumbull from the Judiciary Committee reported a joint resolution declaring Virginia entitled to a representation in Congress.

Mr. Schurz introduced a bill to reform the civil service and addressed the Senate in explanation of its provisions.

At 1.35 p. m., the Senate went into executive session Upon door being opened, shortly after 5 o'clock the Senate adjourned

House.

Mr. Kelley of Penn., presented a memorial of the Senators and Representatives from Tennessee in Congress, praying Congress to interpose for the relief of loyal citizens of Tennessee, against the recent pending revolutionary proceedings in that State and for the maintenance of a Republican form of Government therein.

A large number of bills and resolutions were introduced and referred among them a bill by Mr. Niblack of Indiana, suspending the provisions of the act of March 18th, 1869, to strengthen the public credit until the United States shall resume payment in coin of all the obligations of the Government.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Cox of New York, directing the Secretary of War to communicate a report of estimates etc., as to the feasibility and cost of cutting through Hallett's Point off Hell Gate at about the head of Long Island Sound, a channel sufficiently straight and deep to remove or materially reduce the peril now attending navigation there, also as to the progress of work in blasting Hell Gate. Adopted

At 4 o'clock the House took a recess and met again at 7½ o'clock this evening, and went into Committee of the Whole for the continuation of the debate on the Georgia reconstruction bill. The debate was continued till a late hour.

GUN-MAKING IN FRANCE. An important reduction has recently been made in the Government gun works in France — Every day workmen are discharged, and the number of guns made monthly has been reduced from 14,000 to 9,000 It is said that Napoleon intended to have announced the general disarmament of Europe in his recent address, but couldn't get Russia to join in.

Local and other Items.

OCCUPATION OF THE NEW POST OFFICE At two o'clock yesterday afternoon the doors of the new Post Office were thrown open and the keys to the boxes delivered to box-holders, a large crowd of whom were in attendance and who were promptly waited upon and directed to their new quarters by Postmaster Fuller and his assistants. Owing to the fine arrangement of the boxes, there are few that are not desirable, and most people were pleased with the boxes assigned them, which were given out alphabetically and without regard to persons or other considerations A few very short men found their place in the alphabet required some stooping, while a like number of short men found themselves obliged to stand on tiptoe to obtain their quota of Uncle Sam's letter budget None of the boxes, however, are of great heighth, so that upon the whole little grumbling was heard. The principal difficulties encountered was in getting the hang of the new locks—Yale's patent—and in remembering the numbers of their boxes. A few days will serve to set the latter difficulty right even with those of most treacherous memories, while a few minutes was sufficient for the former. If the number who visited the office yesterday is any criterion to judge from our new postal facilities have been furnished, none to soon, as a large crowd filled the avenue through the afternoon and evening. When the new wears off, however, we shall not probably see so many there at a time, if we should a second enlargement would be necessary

The arrangement of the Post Office is almost if not quite equal to that of any office in the country, and it is finished in a manner alike creditable to those who planned and carried out the work, and worthy of the demands of a city of the present and prospective importance of Bangor,

The Post Office proper occupies the whole lower door of the new extension of the Custom House, 84x48 in the clear inside Occupying a space 10½ feet in width on the south and west sides is the avenue approaching the boxes and deliveries. Inside the office, separate from the avenue by a wall of boxes is a large row 21½ by 36½ in the clear body arrangement has been made for conducting the business of the office with ease and dispatch. At the northerly end opening from the old Post Office avenue is the door through which the mails are brought in and carried out At the left a you enter the room is a large distributing case arranged in the form of a semi circle, and for beauty of design and finish and for convenience it cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Further along is a cancelling table where all letters and papers are stamped. Next to this is an assorting table constructed after a design by Chief Clerk Cummings and admirably adapted to the purpose designed. A slab for magazines and papers and a desk complete the furniture of the office, which is manufactured of black walnut, except the distributing case which is of brown ash, and is from the manufactory of Messrs Gilman, Townsend & Co., and reflects much credit upon their taste and good workmanship

There are two deliveries, one for ladies and the other for gentlemen, the former being approached through the right hand and the latter through the left hand door on the southerly front.

A door at the further end of the avenue on the west side also furnishes an opportunity of ingress and egress. The boxes are of a very handsome pattern, of bronze, with Yale's patent locks, and with a glass front to the lower half of the door, so that it can be readily seen without opening the box whether there is any mail matter within — The boxes are constructed after a design furnished by Major Cochrane, the supervising architect, and are another proof of his well known good taste Beneath the boxes are four rows of draw boxes for those having a large amount of mail matter. The finish is of black walnut, and contrasts handsomely with the light orange of the boxes and the brown ash finish of the office The whole number of boxes and drawers is 1330, being twice the number in the old office.

For the present, until his new quarters are finished, the office of the Money Order and Stamp Clerk will be in the general office, and his window is at the further end of the row of boxes

The old office is being rapidly torn out and will be immediately reconstructed, giving rooms for the Post Master, the Cashier a room for the reception and delivery of the mails, and a sleeping room for the clerks — The whole will be finished in a style to correspond with that of the general Post Office We congratulate Post Master Fuller on his new quarters, and the public upon their increased accommodations.

ANOTHER OF JOHNNY REB'S BULLETS At the Battle of the Wilderness, May, 1864, John B. Smith, private. Co. A, 4th Maine Infantry, was struck by a Minnie ball directly over the bridge of the nose. It went tearing, through the bones of the face, smashed the bony case of the left ear at the base of the brain, and lodged somewhere in the back of the skull, unknown to science and the doctors He was picked up as dead, insensible, bleeding profusely. Consciousness returned the following afternoon and he recovered sufficiently to be about, though weak and thin, and constantly discharging bloody matter from his throat A year afterwards the tissues back of the ear began to thicken and swell, which indicated the habitation of the unwelcome guest Yesterday Dr E F Sanger of this place, assisted by Dr. Sewell, cut down through the critical region behind the left ear and extracted a bullet imbedded in the bones of the skull, two inches from the outer surface The bullet though retaining its conical shape, was strangely battened and hacked in its passage through the bone. When the ball was removed—under the influence of ether—the patient had returned to consciousness, his joy was so great at the relief obtained that he burst into tears. To have such an unwelcome and uncomfortable visitor removed must indeed be a cause of heartfelt thanksgiving.

THE FIRST UNIVERSALIST SUNDAY SCHOOL of this city observed its 29th Anniversary upon Sunday evening, the 19th inst Notwithstanding the bad walking the Church was crowded.

Reference was made to three (3) who have died within the year, Frank Foster, Hattie Penney and Fred Archer. The Library numbers 1860 volumes. It contains an unusually large number of choice and standard works An average of 186 books have been taken from it each Sunday by the school. Amount of money raised from contributions $356 22

Cruelty to Animals.

Editor of the Whig & Courier

As the execution of the law "for the prevention of cruelty to animals" is a new thing in this community, and therefore but little understood, I would ask room to publish a few extracts from the third annual report of the American Society of New York, the officers of which are

President—Henry Bergh

Vice Presidents—John T Hoffman, Horace B Claflin, Henry W Bellows, Benj D Hicks Peter Cooper, James Brown, Geo T Trumbull, Wm H Aspinwall, Moses Taylor Marshall O Roberts

Secretary—N P Hosack

Treasurer—John B Murry

The Society has about three hundred members and honorary members, among which is the name of Ulysses S Grant, Schuyler Colfax John T Hoffman, &c

Their receipts to the Treasury, by fees fines and donations were over ten thousand dollars the past year

The above Society from May 1st, 1868 to May 1st 1869 made two hundred and sixty eight arrests and among the convictions are the following

Lewis Isaacs, for having ten sheep tied by the legs Fined twenty dollars

Peter Murry, for tying three turkies and carrying them slung over his shoulders — Fined three dollars

Christian Smith, for kicking a horse in a cruel manner Fined ten dollars

Alonzo Lee, for encouraging dogs to fight Bound over in three hundred dollars to keep the peace

John Geary, for biting off the hind leg of a kitten Fined and imprisoned

Leopold Keedler, cruelty to oxen and calves in the slaughter house Fined twenty five dollars

H. Frank, setting a large bull dog on a cat and killing it Fined fifteen dollars

Thomas Fanning, driving a lame horse Fined ten dollars

James Lyon, driving a horse with a sore on his back Fined five dollars

Timothy Bryan, for burning a horse under the belly by setting fire to straw Fined fifty dollars and twenty days imprisonment

C Faber, for using abusive language to the President of the Society Fined ten dollars and held under three hundred dollars to keep the peace

John Luss, for beating a dog Fined fifteen dollars

Francis Guise driving a horse unfit for use and overloaded Fined fifty dollars

The Society has been very careful in the execution of the law here, preferring to suppress the numerous violations of the law by admonition and warning, rather than to subject persons to fine and imprisonment and I am glad to be able to say that owners and drivers of teams, when admonished in regard to overloading and other abuses have immediately corrected them, and I am happy to know that a large majority of our citizens are ready to unite and aid in preventing all violations of this wise and timely law to prevent cruelty to animals of whatever name or kind

O H INGALLS Secretary

—That concrete pavement in front of the Post Office was the subject of much favorable comment yesterday The only complaint was that there was not enough of it —clear of snow

—Visitors to the Post Office will find the northern entrance obstructed by the work of changing over the old office and they will therefore find it necessary to come round to the southerly entrance

—A closer examination of the premises leads Mr Abbott to believe that the cause of the fire which destroyed his building was incendiary

—Mrs George Wellington, who died on Sunday morning, was one of the old settlers of Bangor having lived here nearly fifty years She had lived with her husband the unusual term of fifty four years

FISH MARKET Mr Alfred Jones, on Pickering Square, keeps a very neat and tidy fish market, and what is equally important, keeps it well stocked with fresh and salt fish of all kinds He has oysters and clams in their season, and don't intend to be behind his neighbors in providing for the wants of the public Mr Jones is anxious to supply oysters for Christmas dinners, and believes he can give good satisfaction

AROOSTOOK HOGS Messrs Bradley & Cook of Presque Isle sold ten hogs to Messrs Kidder & Rice, of this city, that weighed 4042 lbs—and they reserved enough to supply themselves with pork for a year Two of the hogs weighed 1125 lbs These porkers netted the pleasant little sum of $506 30, which we consider pretty good profit for the pork of one farm

THE LEWISTON FAT MEN'S CONVENTION The Lewiston Journal says as the proposed Fat Men's Convention in that place is talked up, it eventuates that there are more big folks in the world than was supposed There is one clergyman in Androscoggin County, 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighing 290 pounds Among other propositions for the Convention it is suggested that a prize be offered for the heaviest man outside the county attending the Convention A procession of the Fat Men with music, will doubtless pass through Lisbon street from the Hall to the dinner It thinks the Convention will be a "great success," although it does not tell us in what the success consists Applications are received urging that instead of being a local Convention for only Androscoggin Co fat people, that it be a Mass Convention open to fat people from any direction and distance Mayor Parker has received a letter from a corpulent individual in Columbus, Ohio, who is anxious to add his adipose to the general fund, and he certainly ought to have a chance — Bangor perhaps would weigh a little there But why not get up a lean man's Convention? The attendance upon such an affair wouldn't be very lean

THE PEABODY COMMITTEES AT PORTLAND The Committee appointed at the citizens' meeting in Portland Friday evening to take action upon the reception of the remains of George Peabody, are to co-operate with a Committee of the City Council, appointed Monday evening, Aldermen Ezra Carter, Wm. Curtis and George P Wescott, Councilmen, James H Harmon, John H Gaubert, J H Coffin, Charles McCarthy — Mayor William L Putnam was added to the Committee The Committee to confer with the relatives and friends left next morning for Salem and elsewhere

A NEST OF ROGUES BROKEN UP. The Lewiston Journal says not long since a young man entered the office of one of the city Attorneys and said he desired to be divorced of his wife, giving as a reason that she had stolen cotton goods from some of the Lewiston mills, and that he desired she be prosecuted therefor A few days subsequently he brought a package of cotton goods the Attorney's office saying they had been secreted in the garret of a house near the Lewiston M C R R Station, whence he had obtained them—a house previously occupied by himself and wife He also said that his wife's mother had written her daughter (his wife) to steal all she could from the mills and send it to her, and last August she sent her mother by express a barrel full of cotton cloth and subsequently another lot

Officers were accordingly dispatched to West Waterville where lives Freeman Nelson On entering the house of Mr Nelson they were met by Mrs Nelson and her two daughters—Celia, aged about 17 and the wife of the young man who applied for the divorce, and Elva, older and unmarried Either divining the object of the officers or wishing to prejudice them against Holt, the occupants of the house, first informed them that Mr Nelson was away at work in Canaan that her daughter's husband had been there and spent a few days only leaving the day before, that he was a graceless scamp, had quarrelled with her daughter and tried to poison her, and that she ought to have had him arrested On being informed the premises were to be searched, the women resisted The officers opened a large chest and a large quantity of cotton cloth brought to light The old lady who had been held, was then released, but no sooner at liberty than she rushed to the adjoining kitchen, caught up a shovel and rushed back toward one of the officers who stood in the door way The genial disciple of woman's rights not caring just then to meet the coming woman, slammed the door into the casing, and her blow fell harmlessly upon it Things now began to look squally "I'll shoot you you wretches," and multiform other threats resounded The officer entered the kitchen, where the old woman met them with a kettle of hot water which without ceremony she very copiously poured over officer McFadden Fortunately he had a thick overcoat and was not scalded The utensils of war were at last wrenched from the possession of the belligerent females and a truce was agreed on—the women being allowed the full extent of their jaws in the kitchen corner, and be laboring the self denying executive most mercilessly with the tongue One of the daughters thereupon volunteered to show the officers round saying she had nothing in her trunk but she'd as lief they'd see Proceeding to the trunk the girl removed several dresses and called the officers to witness that there were no contraband goods in it While she was overhauling the contents one of the officers thought that he discovered something at the bottom of the trunk, which was cottoney Diving thereto he fished up a quantity of Continental cotton and a lot of cotton yarn The two daughters were arrested and on Thursday brought to Auburn On Friday they were arraigned before Judge Smith of the Lewiston Police Court Celia plead guilty and was put under $400 bonds for her future appearance Elva asked for a week's continuance which was granted, and she was sent to jail

The total value of the sheetings secured by these parties is about $600 The late extensive larcenies upon goods in the various mills are being unearthed and no doubt an example will be made of the culprits A portion of the recovered goods came from the Hill Mill where the girls last worked

New Publications

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE With the number for January, Lippincott's Magazine of Literature, Science, and Education will commence its fifth volume and third year The conductors have made liberal arrangements for the forthcoming volume Their object will continue to be, to present to the American public a magazine of the highest class, and they will avail themselves of every means to render it still more valuable, attractive, and entertaining Its contents are varied, embracing, in addition to the Serial Novels Tales, Novelettes, Sketches of Travel and Adventure, Essays, Poems, Papers on Popular Topics of the Day, and Miscellanies by the ablest writers The Serial novels now appearing in the Magazine will be completed shortly, after which less space will be given to works of this class thus allowing the publishers greater room for articles concerning the prominent interest of the day The Illustrations form an attractive feature Yearly subscriptions $4 Specimen numbers, with Premium List, sent to any address on application J B Lippincott & Co Publishers, Philadelphia

MIRTHFULNESS AND ITS EXCITERS, by Rev B F Clark is a new book of curiosities published by Messrs Lee & Shepard, Boston, and sold by D. Bugbee & Co The volume opens with an article on 'Mirthfulness' and is followed by very pleasing anecdotes respecting clergymen and chapters about lawyers and about doctors, many of which are valuable as reminiscences of distinguished people It gives extracts from Nasby, Artemus Ward, Mrs Partington, Josh Billings and other noted humorists, has a rehash of Irish wit and blunders, and many poetical selections which are very valuable If you would laugh and grow fat you should get Mirthfulness and keep it by you

OLD HORSE GRAY, and the Parish of Grumbletown, by Edward Hopper, dedicated to Henry Bergh, President of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is a small volume telling a story in verse, or rather telling several stories about a subject of much general interest It is issued from the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass, and does credit to that establishment for its neat typographical appearance D Bugbee & Co have it for sale

A beautiful new volume just issued by the Riverside Press, and received through Lee & Shepard, Boston, and D Bugbee & Co, is TING-A-LING, a fairy book, by Frank R. Stockton, and profusely and quaintly illustrated by E. B Bensell. The book contains several of those attractive fairy stories which are so much sought after about these days It is printed on tinted paper and very handsomely bound in cloth.

Dick & Fitzgerald of New York have just published three new volumes in their series of domestic and nursery volumes,—"How to Cook Potatoes, Apples, Eggs and Fish Four Hundred Different Ways," "How to Amuse an Evening Party;" "Howards' Book of Four Hundred Conundrums, Enigmas, Riddles, Amusing Sells, &c"—Dick & Fitzgerald have a faculty of condensing a good deal into little space in [illegible] volumes [illegible]

[illegible] sentenced to be hanged in various parts of the States during the present month. Of these so far only two have suffered the penalty. The rest are getting off, one after another, by writs of error, and commutations

SENSIBLE The Riverside Echo under its new management is decidedly at variance with the Rev. J. E. C Sawyer wing of the temperance party, as will be seen by the following extract

It is of course taken for granted that the great mass of the Temperance men of this State are in political sympathy with the present dominant party, and it is equally clear that they form a very important constituent element of that party It seems moreover that the Temperance voters have indicated their preference to work through an existing party rather than form an independent political organization Their preference, we say, for of course any large body of voters, if compelled in self defence would not hesitate to make their power known by necessary political action But it is better, if possible, to secure appropriate and just Temperance legislation through one of the existing parties and we are glad to see that a disposition is manifested by representative party journals to meet the just claims of the friends of Temperance in a spirit of candor and fairness that promises the best results

An exchange says

'We have it on good and reliable authority that negotiations which have long been pending between the King of Belgium and Commodore James Fisk, Jr, have at last been concluded, and the result is the engagement of the splendid and celebrated Band des Guides for a series of concerts at the Grand Opera House commencing in April The band will be under the baton of Victor Beauder, and will number seventy five pieces

This may be true and it may not. We rather incline to the latter opinion The idea of the King of Belgium negotiating with James Fisk, Jr, for the engagement of a military band is almost too rich to be entertained for a moment The Band des Guides is one of the very best bands in Europe —Traveller

OCCUPATION OF THE NEW POST OFFICE. At two o clock yesterday afternoon the doors of the new Post Office were thrown open and the keys to the boxes delivered to box-holders, a large crowd of whom were in attendance and who were promptly waited upon and directed to their new quarters by Postmaster Fuller and his assistants. Owing to the fine arrangement of the boxes, there are few that are not desirable, and most people were pleased with the boxes assigned them, which were given out alphabetically and without regard to persons, or other considerations. A few very short men found their place in the alphabet required some stooping, while a like number of short men found themselves obliged to stand on tiptoe to obtain their quota of Uncle Sam's letter budget. None of the boxes, however, are of great heighth, so that upon the whole little grumbling was heard. The principal difficulties encountered was in getting the hang of the new locks—Yale's patent—and in remembering the numbers of their boxes A few days will serve to set the latter difficulty right even with those of most treacherous memories, while a few minutes was sufficient for the former. If the number who visited the office yesterday is any criterion to judge from our new postal facilities have been furnished none to soon as a large crowd filled the avenue through the afternoon and evening. When the new wears off, however, we shall not probably see so many there at a time, if we should a second enlargement would be necessary

The arrangement of the Post Office is almost if not quite equal to that of any office in the country, and it is finished in a manner alike creditable to those who planned and carried out the work, and worthy of the demands of a city of the present and prospective importance of Bangor.

The Post Office proper occupies the whole lower door of the new extension of the Custom House, 34x48 in the clear inside Occupying a space 10½ feet in width on the south and west sides is the avenue approaching the boxes and deliveries. Inside the office, separate from the avenue by a wall of boxes is a large row 21½ by 50½ in the clear body arrangement has been made for conducting the business of the office with case and dispatch. At the northerly end opening from the old Post Office avenue is the door through which the mails are brought in and carried out At the left as you enter the room is a large distributing case arranged in the form of a semi circle, and for beauty of design and finish and for convenience it cannot be surpassed by any in the country. Further along is a canceling table where all letters and papers are stamped. Next to this is an assorting table, constructed after a design by Chief Clerk Cummings and admirably adapted to the purpose designed. A slab for magazines and papers and a desk complete the furniture of the office, which is manufactured of black walnut, except the distributing case, which is of brown ash, and is from the manufactory of Messrs Gilman, Townsend & Co, and reflects much credit upon their taste and good workmanship

There are two deliveries, one for ladies and the other for gentlemen, the former being approached through the right hand and the latter through the left hand door on the southerly front.

A door at the further end of the avenue on the west side also furnishes an opportunity of ingress and egress The boxes are of a very handsome pattern, of bronze, with Yale's patent locks, and with a glass front to the lower half of the door, so that it can be readily seen without opening the box whether there is any mail matter within — The boxes are constructed after a design furnished by Major Cochrane, the supervising architect, and are another proof of his well known good taste Beneath the boxes are four rows of draw boxes for those having a large amount of mail matter The finish is of black walnut, and contrasts handsomely with the light orange of the boxes and the brown ash finish of the office The whole number of boxes and drawers is 1339, being twice the number in the old office

For the present, until his new quarters are finished, the office of the Money Order and and Stamp Clerk will be in the general office, and his window is at the further end of the row of boxes

The old office is being rapidly torn out and will be immediately reconstructed, giving rooms for the Post Master, the Cashier a room for the reception and delivery of the mails, and a sleeping room for the clerks — The whole will be finished in a style to correspond with that of the general Post Office. We congratulate Post Master Fuller on his new quarters, and the public upon their increased accommodations.

ANOTHER OF JOHNNY REB'S BULLETS At the Battle of the Wilderness, May, 1864 John B. Smith, private, Co A, 4th Maine Infantry, was struck by a Minnie ball directly over the bridge of the nose It went tearing through the bones of the face, smashed the bony case of the left ear at the base of the brain, and lodged somewhere in the back of the skull, unknown to science and the doctors. He was picked up as dead insensible, bleeding profusely Consciousness returned the following afternoon and he recovered sufficiently to be about, though weak and thin, and constantly discharging bloody matter from his throat A year afterwards the tissues back of the ear began to thicken and swell, which indicated the habitation of the unwelcome guest Yesterday Dr E F Sanger of this place, assisted by Dr. Sewell, cut down through the critical region behind the left ear and extracted a bullet imbedded in the bones of the skull, two inches from the outer surface The bullet though retaining its conical shape was strangely flattened and hacked in its passage through the bone When the ball was removed—under the influence of ether—the patient had returned to consciousness, his joy was so great at the relief obtained that he burst into tears. To have such an unwelcome and uncomfortable visitor removed must indeed be a cause of heartfelt thanksgiving

THE FIRST UNIVERSALIST SUNDAY SCHOOL of this city observed its 29th Anniversary upon Sunday evening, the 19th inst. Notwithstanding the bad walking the Church was crowded.

The exercises, which were very interesting, consisted of the report of the Secretary, Mr Henry Lord earnest and eloquent addresses by Rev Messrs Reasoner and Battles, prayer, and reading and singing from the service and singing books in use by the school.

The report of the Secretary represented the school in a flourishing condition Whole number of teachers and scholars, 408; average attendance, 227, 188 have joined during the year, 114 have left; increase, 24. Reference was made to three (3) who have died within the year, Frank Foster, Hattie Penney and Fred Archer. The Library numbers 1840 volumes. It contains an unusually large number of choice and standard works. An average of 186 books have been taken from it each Sunday by the school. Amount of money raised from contributions $346 22

Editor of the Whig & Courier

As the execution of the law "for the prevention of cruelty to animals" is a new thing in this community, and therefore but little understood, I would ask room to publish a few extracts from the third annual report of the American Society of New York, the officers of which are

President—Henry Bergh

Vice Presidents—John T Hoffman, Horace B Claflin, Henry W Bellows, Benj D Hicks Peter Cooper, James Brown, Geo T Trimball, Wm H Aspinwall, Moses Taylor Marshall O Roberts

Secretary—N P Hassck

Treasurer—John B Murry

The Society has about three hundred members and honorary members, among which is the name of Ulysses S Grant, Schuyler Colfax John T Hoffman, &c

The receipts to the Treasury, by fees, fines and donations were over ten thousand dollars the past year

The above Society from May 1st, 1868 to May 1st 1869 made two hundred and sixty eight arrests and among the convictions are the following

Lewis Isaacs for having ten sheep tied by the legs Fined twenty dollars

Peter Murry for tying three turkies and carrying them slung over his shoulders — Fined three dollars

Christian Smith for kicking a horse in a cruel manner Fined ten dollars

Alonzo Lee, for encouraging dogs to fight Bound over in three hundred dollars to keep the peace

John Geary for biting off the hind leg of a kitten Fined and imprisoned

Leopold Keeder, cruelty to oxen and calves in the slaughter house Fined twenty five dollars

H Frank, setting a large bull dog on a cat and killing it Fined fifteen dollars

Thomas Fanning driving a lame horse Fined ten dollars

James Lyon, driving a horse with a sore on his back Fined five dollars

Timothy Bryan for burning a horse under the belly by setting fire to straw Fined fifty dollars and twenty days imprisonment

C Faber, for using abusive language to the President of the Society Fined ten dollars and held under three hundred dollars to keep the peace

John Lee, for beating a dog Fined fifteen dollars

Francis Guise driving a horse unfit for use and overloaded Fined fifty dollars

The Society has been very careful in the execution of the law here, preferring to suppress the numerous violations of the law by admonition and warning, rather than to subject persons to fine and imprisonment and I am glad to be able to say that owners and drivers of teams, when admonished in regard to overloading and other abuses have immediately corrected them, and I am happy to know that a large majority of our citizens are ready to unite and aid in preventing all violations of this wise and timely law to prevent cruelty to animals of whatever name or kind

O D INGALLS Secretary

—That concrete pavement in front of the Post Office was the subject of much favorable comment yesterday The only complaint was that there was not enough of it —clear of snow

—Visitors to the Post Office will find the northern entrance obstructed by the work of changing over the old office and they will therefore find it necessary to come round to the southerly entrance

—A closer examination of the premises leads Mr Abbott to believe that the cause of the fire which destroyed his building was incendiary

FISH MARKET Mr Alfred Jones on Pickering Square keeps a very neat and tidy fish market and what is equally important, keeps it well stocked with fresh and salt fish of all kinds He has oysters and clams in their season and don't intend to be behind his neighbors in providing for the wants of the public Mr Jones is anxious to supply oysters for Christmas dinners and believes he can give good satisfaction

AROOSTOOK HOGS Messrs Bradley & Cook of Presque Isle sold ten hogs to Messrs Kidder & Rice, of this city, that weighed 4042 lbs—and they reserved enough to supply themselves with pork for a year Two of the hogs weighed 1125 lbs These porkers netted the pleasant little sum of $506 39, which we consider pretty good profit for the pork of one farm

THE LEWISTON FAT MEN'S CONVENTION The Lewiston Journal says as the proposed Fat Men's Convention in that place is talked up it eventuates that there are more big folks in the world than was supposed There is one clergyman in Androscoggin County, 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighing 235 pounds Among other propositions for the Convention it is suggested that a prize be offered for the heaviest man outside the county attending the Convention A procession of the Fat Men with music, will doubtless pass through Lisbon street from the Hall to the dinner It thinks the Convention will be a 'great success,' although it does not tell us in what the success consists Applications are received urging that instead of being a local Convention for only Androscoggin Co fat people, that it be a Mass Convention open to fat people from any direction and distance Mayor Parker has received a letter from a corpulent individual in Columbus, Ohio, who is anxious to add his adipose to the general fund and he certainly ought to have a chance — Bangor perhaps would weigh a little there But why not get up a lean man's Convention? The attendance upon such an affair wouldn't be very lean

THE PEABODY COMMITTEES AT PORTLAND The Committee appointed at the citizens' meeting in Portland Friday evening to take action upon the reception of the remains of George Peabody, are to co-operate with a Committee of the City Council, appointed Monday evening, Aldermen Ezra Carter, Wm. A NEST OF ROGUES BROKEN UP. The Lewiston Journal says not long since a young man entered the office of one of the city Attorneys and said he desired to be divorced of his wife, giving as a reason that she had stolen cotton goods from some of the Lewiston mills, and that he desired she be prosecuted therefor A few days subsequently he brought a package of cotton goods the Attorney's office saying they had been secreted in the garret of a house near the Lewiston M C R R Station, whence he had obtained them—a house previously occupied by himself and wife He also said that his wife's mother had written her daughter (his wife) to steal all she could from the mills and send it to her, and last August she sent her mother by express a barrel full of cotton cloth and subsequently another lot

Officers were accordingly dispatched to West Waterville where lives Freeman Nelson On entering the house of Mr Nelson they were met by Mrs Nelson and her two daughters—Celia, aged about 17 and the wife of the young man who applied for the divorce and Elva, older and unmarried Eliher divining the object of the officers or wishing to prejudice them against Holt, the occupants of the house, first informed them that Mr Nelson was away at work in Canaan that her daughter's husband had been there and spent a few days, only leaving the day before, that he was a graceless scamp, had quarrelled with her daughter and tried to poison her, and that she ought to have had him arrested On being informed the premises were to be searched, the women resisted The officers opened a large chest and a large quantity of cotton cloth brought to light The old lady who had been held was then released, but no sooner at liberty than she rushed to the adjoining kitchen, caught up a shovel and rushed back toward one of the officers who stood in the door way The genial disciple of woman's rights not caring just then to meet the coming woman, slammed the door into the casing, and her blow fell harmlessly upon it Things now began to look equally "I'll shoot you you wretches" and multiform other threats resounded The officer entered the kitchen, where the old woman met them with a kettle of hot water, which without ceremony she very graciously poured over officer McFadden Fortunately he had a thick overcoat and was not scalded The utensils of war were at last wrenched from the possession of the belligerent females, and a truce was agreed on—the women being allowed the full action of their jaws in the kitchen corner and belaboring the self denying executives most mercilessly with the tongue One of the daughters thereupon volunteered to show the officers round saying she had nothing in her trunk but she'd as lief they'd see Proceeding to the trunk the girl removed several dresses and called the officers to witness that there were no contraband goods in it While she was overhauling the contents one of the officers thought that he discovered something at the bottom of the trunk, which was cottoney Diving thereto he fished up a quantity of Continental cotton and a lot of cotton yarn The two daughters were arrested and on Thursday brought to Auburn On Friday they were arraigned before Judge Smith of the Lewiston Police Court Celia plead guilty and was put under $400 bonds for her future appearance Elva asked for a week's continuance which was granted, and she was sent to jail

The total value of the sheetings secured by these parties is about $300 The late extensive larcenies upon goods in the various mills are being unearthed, and no doubt an example will be made of the culprits A portion of the recovered goods came from the Hill Mill where the girls last worked

MIRTHFULNESS AND ITS EXCITERS, by Rev B F Clark, is a new book of curiosities published by Messrs Lee & Shepard Boston and sold by D Bugbee & Co The volume opens with an article on "Mirthfulness," and is followed by very pleasing anecdotes respecting clergymen and chapters about lawyers and about doctors, many of which are valuable as reminiscences of distinguished people It gives extracts from Nasby, Artemus Ward Mrs Partington Josh Billings and other noted humorists, has a rehash of Irish wit and blunders, and many poetical selections which are very valuable If you would laugh and grow fat you should get Mirthfulness and keep it by you

OLD HORSE GRAY, and the Parish of Grumbletown by Edward Hopper, dedicated to Henry Bergh, President of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is a small volume telling a story in verse, or rather telling several stories about a subject of much general interest It is issued from the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass, and does credit to that establishment for its neat typographical appearance D Bugbee & Co have it for sale

A beautiful new volume just issued by the Riverside Press, and received through Lee & Shepard, Boston, and D Bugbee & Co is TING A-LING, a fairy book, by Frank R Stockton, and profusely and quaintly illustrated by E. B Bansell. The book contains several of those attractive fairy stories which are so much sought after about these days It is printed on tinted paper and very handsomely bound in cloth

Dick & Fitzgerald of New York have just published three new volumes in their series of domestic and nursery volumes,— "How to Cook Potatoes, Apples, Eggs and Fish Four Hundred Different Ways," "How to Amuse an Evening Party;" "Howards' Book of Four Hundred Conundrums, Enigmas, Riddles, Amusing Sells, &c"— Dick & Fitzgerald have a faculty of condensing a good deal into little space in order to lessen their price, and these volumes are certainly complete in their way.

[illegible] to be hanged in various parts of the States during the present month. Of these so far only two have suffered the penalty. The rest are getting off, one after another, by writs of error, and commutations

SENSIBLE The Riverside Echo under its new management is decidedly at variance with the Rev J E C Sawyer wing of the temperance party, as will be seen by the following extract

It is of course taken for granted that the great mass of the Temperance men of this State are in political sympathy with the present dominant party, and it is equally clear that they form a very important constituent element of that party It seems moreover that the Temperance voters have indicated their preference to work through an existing party rather than form an independent political organization. Their preference, we say, for of course any large body of voters if compelled in self defence would not hesitate to make their power known by necessary political action But it is better, if possible, to secure appropriate and just Temperance legislation through one of the existing parties, and we are glad to see that a disposition is manifested by representative party journals to meet the just claims of the friends of Temperance in a spirit of candor and fairness that promises the best results

"We have it on good and reliable authority that negotiations which have long been pending between the King of Belgium and Commodore James Fisk, Jr, have at last been concluded, and the result is the engagement of the splendid and celebrated Band des Guides for a series of concerts at the Grand Opera House commencing in April The band will be under the baton of Victor Bender, and will number seventy five pieces"

This may be true and it may not. We rather incline to the latter opinion The idea of the King of Belgium negotiating with James Fisk, Jr, for the engagement of a military band is almost too rich to be entertained for a moment The Band des Guides is one of the very best bands in Europe —Traveller

One More Song.

I listen, far from home, to-day,
While tuneful showers sing above,
And mem'rie's power has perfect sway
O'er hours of joy and grief and love.
And 'neath these weeping, wint'ry skies,
I gladly welcome her control,
While to my view doth sweetly rise
The priceless treasures of my soul.

Oh ! could I ever, ever part—
Though much of grief my past has known—
With thoughts of hours dear to my heart,
From glory love has round them thrown?
No! they come from my darkest hour,
More mighty than sad thoughts that rise,
As now they come, with cheering power,
Beneath these weeping, wint'ry skies.

I here must worship God apart
From one for whom my spirit cries;
The past alone can cheer one heart
Beneath these weeping, wint'ry skies.
And I, perchance, must onward tread
My path alone, so lone and drear,
Till all the beauteous flowers are dead,
That in fresh summer shall appear.

The Fisherman's Daughter.

Priscilla Farnham was the daughter of a fisherman who had lost his life at the Banks, leaving his children to the tender mercies of Uncle Eben, sail-maker, living on Tide Street, in a seaport town. But to Priscilla's sorrow, be it said, she understood the ancient pastime of coquetry as well as the most finished and accomplished dames of society. 'It was bred in the bone,' averred her less successful neighbors.

'Poor Priscilla! it will bring her to grief yet,' presaged the more kindly.

But Captain Jasper always frowned when these things were said of her in his presence, and left the gossips without a word. If he could have said, 'It is false,' he would not have cared so much; but in his heart he knew it for the truth, and it vexed him to hear it repeated every where like an echo. He had loved Priscilla, and though he very well knew that if she were kind to-day it was because she meditated a relapse tomorrow—though he never could tell whether his devotion moved her, or whether there were any depths to be moved in that mobile nature—still, for all that, he loved her as no mere words could depict, dreamed of her, plotted and worked for her like a Hercules. Perhaps it was because she so resembled the sea that he loved her; because she was so changeful and beautiful, never the same thing twice in her life. But, whatever the reason may have been, he did not often stay to consider it, but went his way guided in all things by this one flame, which never veered however the winds might blow or the storms might beat.

'We shall sail tomorrow,' he said to her one evening, as the dusk was closing down, leaning in at the kitchen window, while Priscilla folded the clothes from the week's wash.

'Oh! did I sprinkle you,' she cried, as she let fall a douche from her rosy hand.

'It is not the first cold water you've thrown at me,' he laughed. 'I'd rather take it in this shape. I'll be worse sprinkled before you see me again, I reckon.'

'Shall you be gone long?' she vouchsafed.

'That depends. If I had anything to come home to—who knows? Do you know, Priscilla, a man with a wife or a sweetheart floats where another would sink?'

'Why don't you marry, then? It would be as good as taking a life-preserver along.'

'You laugh at me, Priscilla; but you don't comprehend. The first man has something to live for, someting that makes life an elixir. In danger he thinks of the dear face watching at home, of the weary waiting, of the bitter, blinding tears, and he makes up his mind to live—for her sake.'

'But you will be at home by Christmas?' she asked, leaving the point undisputed.

'If God wills it.'

'Come, then, and pull a wish-bone with me on Christmas-day, and praise my plum-pudding.'

'With all my heart; but Priscilla—?'

'Well?'

'Think how long it will be without seeing you. Answer one question before I go.'

'It's impertinent to ask questions, sir.'

'Not this one, Priscilla, may I come to your Christmas dinner as—as your sweetheart? I love you, dear.'

'But come as ye were na' courting o' me,' she sang, mockingly, in answer.

'Consider, dear,' he persisted, for he knew her ways, 'not twice in a lifetime is such love offered to another as I offer to you.'

'Oh thank you,' she said, folding her clothes vigorously, 'I'm sure I'm not worth such a prize. It would be wasted on me.'

'Indeed, you are worth far better; but can I do more than give you my best? Of course I think it worth your taking or I shouldn't offer it; it would be folly to pretend that I don't. But if I were a king you should be my queen—if you would.'

'If I wouldn't?' she asked.

'Then good-by.'

'Good-bye, then.'

'Good-bye.'

Had he really gone? He would be back presently—no danger. He would get aground down at the gate; they always did. There, he was returning already.

'If you should change your mind,' he said, coming to her side, 'send me a line. Lewis will sail in a month; he will touch at our port before we leave on the return trip. If you send me a line by him it may be a life-line—if you should change your mind, Priscilla.'

'I shall be hardly likely to change my mind,' she answered, haughtily enough, with the inborn love of playing with fate, of finding how near she might come to the edge of a precipice and yet preserve her balance in full possession; and then she heard the gate click after him, and watched his shadow vanish down the street. Oh, but he would come tomorrow—she was sure of that. Couldn't he see that she was used to being sued, that she never yielded at the first word? Couldn't he be certain that her reserve was a make-believe? couldn't he see her heart beating through it all? Was he blind? Did love really make people blind to their own undoing, to lead them astray? She never once questioned if she were blind herself. He might have carried the day with another word, and she felt aggrieved that he had omitted it, and a little angry with him. Besides, she had not lied to him—she should not change; only just now she did not feel like binding herself, and so be left out of all the merry-makings between this and Christmas.

At any rate she would see him tomorrow, and perhaps—But when tomorrow came up out of the east the Heron was no longer in the stream, nor yet a phantom sheet lost in the fogs across the bar. She had weighed anchor during the night, and dropped down with the tide and a fair wind that was even now filling her canvas out on the Atlantic.

Plainly Captain Jasper would not press his suit tomorrow.

Priscilla was dishing the dinner when Uncle Eben came in.

'Heron's off,' said he, 'and Jasper with her.'

'I thought,' she said, smothering a sigh—'I thought they were not going till to-day,' putting the potatoes into the butter-boat in her absent-mindedness.

'Wa'al, ye see, wind came up fair and tide served; and Jasper said he hadn't any thing to wait for—how is that, Cilly?'

What's that to me?' she answered, crossly, 'what isn't worth waiting for isn't worth having.'

'No, no, that ain't it: what ain't worth asking for ain't worth having. Captain Jasper was very sore about it. You treated him ill, Cilly. Fire and love are dangerous playthings.'

'The burned child,' she insinuated saucily.

'The same. I don't mind owning to it. I shall carry the scars to my grave. But you'll send Jasper that line, Cilly?'

'It's a pity Jasper can't keep his own counsel!'

'He was that broken-hearted. It's nigh to killing a man to keep it all to hisself. Don't I know it? But you will send him the line?'

'I don't know.'

'You'll find out, I reckon.'

And then they sat down to their boiled halibut, and the children came trooping in from school and play, and Uncle Eben had a dozen things to relate; and the gossip of the wharves and the fishermen; how a shark had been seen off Snarler's Point; what "Fetch and Carry" had netted from their last venture; what news from the mackerel fleet; how fine the Heron had looked in her new rigging, and how his needle had broken in the sails and an old tar had boded ill luck to the voyage therefrom; so that before dinner was over Priscilla had decided to send Jasper the line he craved by Captain Lewis. Therefore when, a month later, Lewis dropped in one day to say good-by and that he sailed for the same port on the morrow, in the interest of the same merchants whom Jasper served, Priscilla asked,

'Would you mind taking a line to Captain Jasper for me?' and then the color shot over her face and stained it crimson.

'Hump!' said Lewis; 'anything particklar between you and Jasper?'

'I don't know what you call anything in particular; but if you don't wish to take my letter, you can leave it.'

'Of course I'll take it, Cilly. Wouldn't I do anything for you? What shall I bring you home now?'

'Bring yourself home,' she answered, with the last spark of her old caprice flaring up before going on forever. And then Captain Lewis took the little note, which simply said:

"DEAR JASPER,—I haven't changed my mind, for I didn't need to, in order to love you. I shall look for you on Christmas-day.
Yours, PRISCILLA."

And Captain Lewis went off whistling 'Caller Herrin,' as contentedly as if his name had been Jasper.

They were not much in the way of letter writing, these simple fishing folks, and this was a labor of love to which Priscilla had set her name—first to make sure of saying enough, but not too much; to take care the spelling was not too bad, that the punctuations did not put out the sense, nor obscure her meaning. She did not expect an answer; but, satisfied with her tardy resolve, and confident of its success, she pursued her household duties, and joined the merry-makings with a light heart and smiling face, lit by the lustre of a hope.

After all, Christmas was not so very far off; and she used to sit over her darning and imagine Jasper's surprise when Captain Lewis should deliver the letter. She had never dreamed that love could tame so. Why she cared nothing at all for the vain babblings of those young men who followed in her train, whose adoration she had valued but yesterday. She could hardly believe that she had let Jasper go without a kind word; but then she had counted upon seeing him to-morrow.

And so the year waned. Sometimes now Priscilla would wake in the 'dead middle of the night,' and hear the tide lashing the piers and fretting about the shore, and she would catch, far-off, the dull, smothered thunder of the sea, where it broke in a fury of crested waves upon the bar, and sent its spray to read the darkness in the face of the troubled sea-farer. On such nights she used to rise and open her window, listening breathlessly for signals of distress, imagining that dying shrieks mingled with the hoarse roar of the breakers.

'Jasper shall never go to sea again if once he comes home,' she thought, 'not if I have to stand on the street corners and cry red herrings for a living.'

And yet Jasper was not due till Christmas-time, foolish child! But love is always on guard, with its poor blind eyes.

By-and-by, the first snow heralded itself one night by a bank of clouds, and at morning the bare boughs were draped in filmy laces, and all the world was a lonesome, dazzling waste.

'At least,' thought Priscilla, 'Christmas will be here soon.'

She did not trust herself now to say that Jasper would be as certain to come. She had begun to doubt, now that the winter winds blew in her face, and the frost flowers shut out her sea-view; for how many storms must rave along the coast, and how many ships go down, and how many hearts break before Christmas day! Perhaps she thought of these things while she made ready for that happy day; perhaps he saw now how cruelly she had used herself as well as Jasper, in disowning with her lips the emotion of her heart, in rashly counting on to-morrow's friendship. What if he should go down to his death, and never know how she had watched and waited and sorrowed for him! Where would be her comfort then? But all the same, she went about her drudgery with these fears haunting, waylaying her, made the house cheery for Uncle Eben, the fire bright, the food savory; mended his clothes, made herself the prettiest bonnet she could devise, just for Jasper's sake.

But somehow, when Christmas was really knocking at the door, and the earth was sheeted in hoar-frost, and the fires snapped and blazed with a will, and all manner of kind wishes were current; when Priscilla's six-hour pudding, a culinary master-piece, was ready for its bag, the pies were waiting on the pantry shelves, the crab-apple jelly quaking in its jars; when the great turkey was dressed and in the pan, and there was a loaf of plum-cake in the chest, along with the sponge gingerbread and raised doughnuts, that Jasper liked; when all these delightful preparations had been completed, and Priscilla, in her new poplin with scarlet ribbons, went up to the house-top, with the spyglass and Uncle Eben, all those dolorous fears with which her winter had been clouded blew away; and she expected nothing but to see the Heron bounding homeward, without a hindrance, the instant she should put the glass to her eyes. But she had never had a real lover at sea before, and her eyes hadn't the knack of Uncle Eben's in such matters, into whose hands she reluctantly resigned herself.

'Do you see anything coming, Uncle Eben?' she asked, like Bluebeard's wife; her fingers tingling with the cold, her cheeks burning with excitement, and the high wind pulling out her crimps at a disastrous rate.

'Hey? Yes, I see the sea out there beyo'nd the bar, all frothy like yeast, Cilly.'

'Any sail, Uncle Eben?' she persisted.

'Yes, child, yes; two of 'em.'

'Do you suppose it's the Heron?' altogether overlooking the plural number.

'Wait a bit, Cilly; don't hurry, time enough; if either of 'em's the Heron Jasper'll be up before dinner-time any way; it's only a matter of three miles, and with this wind she'd be up in a trice.'

Priscilla's teeth were chattering in her head, as much with nervousness as with cold.

'You'll catch cold up here, Uncle Eben,' she said, 'I'll just run down and look into the oven; I'll be back in a jiffy.'

'Put something on your head while you're down there,' he advised. 'I'm as warm as wool with my turpaulin and comforter.'

She was gone precisely a jiffy, during which mythical portion of time she had fed the fire, looked into the oven, and lifted the cover of the steamer; for it would never do to have the dinner overdone and Jasper at the door, so to speak. Then she wrapped a shawl about her shoulders, and was up to the house-top in season to hear Uncle Eben exclaim:

'It's the Heron! it's the Heron! or I'm a bat.'

'How do you know?' queried his niece merely as a matter of form, being fully persuaded that if Uncle Eben said it was the Heron, the Heron it must be.

'Know?' he returned. 'Don't I know every sail in her? Didn't I set every stitch in that canvass?'

'I hope the stitches aren't so big you can see them this far?' spoke his saucy niece.

STATE OF MAINE.

To the Honorable Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court next to be held at Bangor, in and for the County of Penobscot, on the First Tuesday of October next.

FANNIE F. DUREN, of Orrington, in the County of Penobscot, wife of James Duren, of said Orrington, respectfully libels and gives this Honorable Court to be informed that she was lawfully married to the said James Duren, at said Orrington, on the 20th day of January A. D. 1863, and has had by him one child now living, viz: Arthur Edward, who is six months old; that since their intermarriage your libellant has always behaved herself as a faithful, chaste and affectionate wife towards said James Duren, but that said James Duren, wholly regardless of his marriage covenant and duty, has become and is a confirmed habitual and common drunkard, thereby incapacitating himself for the proper treatment and support of his family, and habitually treats your libellant with great neglect, cruelty and violence, and particularly did so treat your libellant on the 30th day of June, A. D. 1869, at said Orrington, when and where said James Duren, in a drunken fit, did assault your libellant, and then and there did beat, strike, and choke your libellant, so that her life and safety were greatly endangered. And your libellant represents that her life with said James Duren is totally miserable, and that she cannot longer live with said James Duren, without being in constant danger of violence and abuse, endangering even her life. Wherefore she prays right and justice, and that she may be divorced from the bonds of matrimony between her and her said husband, and that the custody and education of her said child may be committed and entrusted to her, and as in duty bound will ever pray.

VALUABLE TIMBER LANDS AND MILL PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of his interest in Timber Lands and mills, offers on favorable terms the following:

One-Half Township No. 5, Range 1, Oxford County.

The whole township contains twenty-six thousand (26,000) acres; is heavily timbered with spruce, estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within near and easy hauling distance to the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, or Parmachenee Lake, which is embraced within its limits.

Also 16,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron Oxford Co.,

well covered with large Spruce timber. Swift river and its branches run through these lands and empty into the Androscoggin below Rumford Falls.

Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.,

two miles above the Alpine House, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on those lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is steadily increasing in value.

Also 2500 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham, near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Saccarappa, or by hauling four to five miles they can be put into the Saco. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract; distance to the canal at Harrison ten miles, to the railroad at South Paris twelve miles. This land is valuable for settling purposes after it is cleared of timber.

Also 435 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 500 shares. The property of the company consists of a Steam Saw Mill, capable of manufacturing five million feet of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and laths. Also fifteen acres land in the city of Lewiston, well suited for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of timber land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of the timber has been cut.

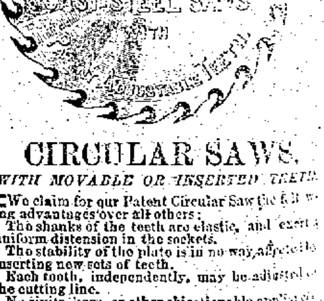
SAWS!



CIRCULAR SAWS.

WITH MOVABLE OR INSERTED TEETH.

We claim for our Patent Circular Saw the following advantages over all others:

The shanks of the teeth are elastic, and exert a uniform distension in the sockets.

The stability of the plate is in no way affected by inserting new sets of teeth.

Each tooth, independently, may be adjusted to the cutting line.

No rivits, keys, or other objectionable appliances are employed in connection with the teeth which are as simple in construction, and as easily used, as a nut for a bolt.

In short, all the difficulties heretofore experienced in the use of movable teeth for saws are fully met and obviated by this invention.
